INAUGURAL RURAL WOMEN'S DAY ORROROO

54 31 Collective hosted Orroroo's inaugural Rural Women's Day Long Lunch event on the 14th October 2023. We were fortunately blessed with fine weather, where 220 rural ladies from within and outside the district enjoyed first class speakers, delicious locally sourced food, a welcoming atmosphere & live music. There definitely was a positive happy colourful vibe at the event.

We have been overwhelmed with the positive feedback we have received, and thank everyone who attended, plans are already in place for our 2024 event.

The day celebrated an incredible line up of speakers, hosted by 2022 Agrifutures Rural Women of the Year Stephanie Trethewey, CEO & founder of Motherland and 2023 Australian of the Year 2023 Taryn Brumfitt. Both speakers were entertaining and enlightening, sharing their personal experiences and journeys.

Steph was joined Emily Riggs (Iris & Wool), Nikki Atkinson (Horrocks Vale Collections) and Kate Ivey (founder of Kate Ivey fitness, the home of DediKate) – who gave us an insight into their lives and the innovation behind their businesses and passions.

We are very grateful to the collaborative catering effort, showcasing local businesses including Orroroo Meat Co, Black Rock Kitchen, Two Farmers Daughters, Maggies Rendezvous, Soil and Sun and Kavanagh Catering, not to mention the local young hard working waitresses and the not so young bar staff!

We wish to thank and acknowledge our sponsors and funding bodies:

- Kelly Kelly Legal
- National Australia Bank Norfolk Metal
- The Champagne Mile
- Northern Yorke Landscapes Board SA Drought Hub
- Geoff & Daniel Schell Ray White Rural SA
- KELLY Tillage Australia
- Foundation for Rural Regional Renewal
- Department Primary Industries and Regions (Thriving Regions Program)

Without their support we would not have been able to engage the calibre of speakers and affordable ticket pricing for our community.

We would also like to acknowledge and thank the individuals and businesses that donated to our online auction, with proceeds being donated to the Orroroo Hospital Ladies Auxiliary, who are instrumental in supporting the district's local health services & facilities.

The 54 31 Collective team continue to strive to develop and grow our community hub as more projects continue to be implemented over the next 6 months. We are working hard to achieve that 54 31 Collective is more than just a shop front, but a place that offers the community opportunities to connect, collaborate and celebrate!

Message from the Mayor

A huge congratulations to a couple of groups of people for the success of their respective events.

The Arts Hub had a very successful event showcasing a lot of local creative talents. Some truly fantastic items were well displayed in the Town Hall. Some sales also occurred so a job well done.

The Rural Women's Day luncheon at the town oval was attended by about 220 women from everywhere around our area and beyond. A hugely successful day with everyone thoroughly enjoying themselves. We are hoping this will be a regular event on Orroroo's calendar in the coming years. Once again a huge congratulations to the 54 31 Collective ladies for organising and running this event.

Not much joy with the rainfall since last month. Some crops are being reapt with better than expected yields, so I hope this continues throughout the district. Livestock prices are at rock bottom or close to it, so we can only hope this improves in the very near future.

The Council's Strategic and Community plan will be again put out for consultation before the final decision of Council, so have a read and let us know what you think.

A men's shed meeting was held on Monday 30th October. A great initiative that needs supporting by any men of any age who are interested. Good luck to Rob Bollinger and his team. A great attendance. Congratulations to the men who put their hands up for the positions needed.

We have a policeman back in town. Welcome back to Mark Woods, great to have him around again!

Carrieton Gymkhana and Motokhana is on again on Saturday 11th November. It will be a great days entertainment, so support the event if you can.

As Christmas approaches support our local businesses.

Cheers Grant

From the Council Desk

Council is very pleased to have created our new ten year 'draft' Strategic and Community Plan, the document is now out for consultation and is available on the website or a hard copy from reception; the Plan sets the direction for the next ten years for Council and the community.

Much of the emphasis of the Plan has been placed on the highest priorities to come from the community consultation workshops. Many of the items have been incorporated into the high level action plan that sits at the rear of the document.

These actions are a mix of 'built form' projects delivered by Council and others are related to strong advocacy projects, but all require Council intervention in some manner.

Some of the 'key projects/opportunities' identified as priority by the community include but not limited to;

- Housing block availability
- Childcare availability
- Public transport access to University Hubs and TAFE's in the localised area.
- Master Plan of the Orroroo Recreation Facility
- Orroroo Main Street Rejuvenation Project
- Carrieton Water Supply investigation

Once the consultation period has ceased, Council will then deliberate on the overall feedback on the Strategic and Community Plan and then endorse a Plan with or without amendment at the November meeting.

You will have noticed lots of roadworks happening over the last few months

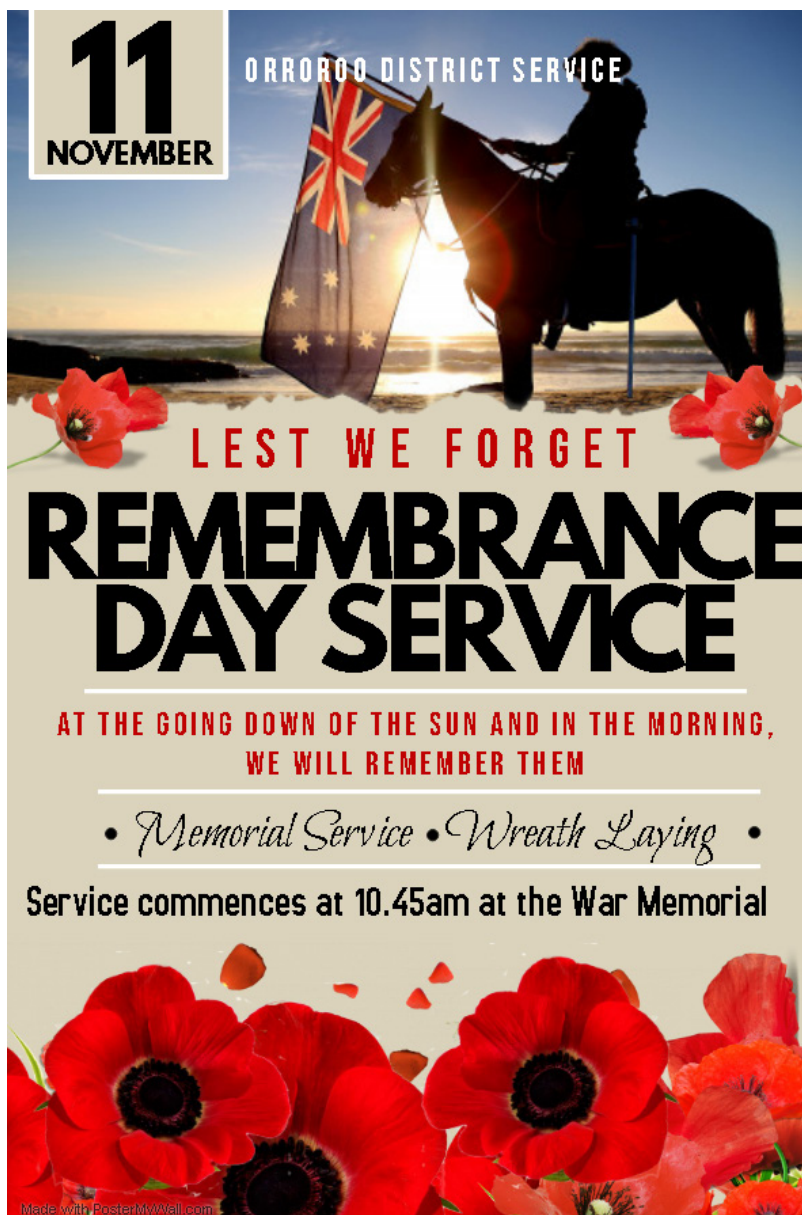

District Council of
ORROROO

and by the time this article is in print a great deal of the sealing will have been completed. The township sealed road upgrade works have been largely completed (earthworks and base preparations) by our small outdoor workforce, this is a large undertaking for a workforce of our size. The reality is that we have completed this work internally for less than half the price of the quotes received from construction companies before the project commencement. We punch well above our weight in delivering these projects for the community.

Our outdoor staffs attention will now return to the 'nuts and bolts' work of township areas and general maintenance tasks, this work has been minimised whilst our focus has been on the delivery of capital works projects. The reality of having such a small workforce, is that we must prioritise tasks to get the work done. Unfortunately this may result in some areas looking less than glamorous for short periods of time. Having said that, I would challenge anyone to find a consistently neater grouping of towns than the District Council of Orroroo Carrieton, a true credit to all involved from resident through to DCOC staff.

Next Council Meeting will be held Wednesday 22nd November 2023
at 9am in the Orroroo Council Chambers.

The Laura Ag Bureau have contacted me to see if there is interest in the supply of low cost barley straw, as they provided in 2019/20. Baling costs and transport costs would be passed on to the recipient. Baling will commence in the next week if there is interest from farmers.

Please contact Grant ASAP to register your interest.

Community Events

Community groups and organisations are reminded to lodge their application for special events on Council land at least 3 months prior to the event. All events must be considered by Council and any road closures authorised at a Council Meeting and subsequently approval by SAPOL. In order to ensure that the event is able to proceed, it is best to contact Council with all the details including date, times, location, purpose of the event, public liability insurance and event management plan. Please contact the Council Office to discuss your event.

Expression of Interest Casual Employment

Council is seeking for a flexible, versatile and energetic person to work at Council on a 'casual basis' covering peak periods and extended leave.

The role will involve general administration tasks including customer service and would ideally suit a locally based person.

A high level of computer literacy and the ability to quickly learn various programs is essential. Local or State Government experience will be highly valued.

It is expected that the role be utilised for approximately .25 FTE annually, however there may be potential for this to increase into the future. A Position Description can be found at the following www.orraroo.sa.gov.au and applications including covering letter should be sent to council@orraroo.sa.gov.au or dropped at reception.

Please contact the CEO, Paul Simpson for further clarification or a confidential discussion.

Prepare now for this Fire Danger Season

Warmer and dryer conditions throughout spring mean the 2023/24 Fire Danger Season will start early in six of the state's Fire Ban Districts.

SA Country Fire Service (CFS) has declared the season will start two weeks' early for the Flinders, North East Pastoral, North West Pastoral, and West Coast districts, which go into fire bans on 16th October, followed by Mid North and Yorke Peninsula districts on 1st November.

Fire Danger Season dates have also been confirmed for the Eastern Eyre on 1st November and 15th November for Lower Eyre Peninsula, which is in line with previous years.

This follows consultation with relevant Bushfire Management Committees, with a final declaration from CFS Chief Officer, Brett Loughlin AFSM.

CFS Director of Community Risk and Resilience, Alison May, said the Bushfire Management Committees and local Councils have reported significant and widespread grass fuel loads and curing in recent weeks.

"These changes have been assessed against what would normally be expected in these six Fire Ban Districts," Ms May said.

"As a consequence, the Bushfire Management Committees in these regions have recommended that the Fire Danger Season be brought forward earlier than normal."

"The start of the Fire Danger Season sends a message to all South Australians to be prepared for the upcoming season, including knowing what they can and can't do during the Fire Danger Season and on Total Fire Ban days."

Minister for Police, Emergency Services and Correctional Services, Joe Szakacs, said preparing for bushfires is a shared responsibility for all South Australians.

Council will be inspecting township properties during October and issuing notices so that they are compliant with the Fire & Emergency Services Act 2005.

Township properties are required to take the following actions:

- Remove all flammable (or potentially flammable) grass and undergrowth over the entire allotment to less than 100mm (4") in height AND
- Remove and properly dispose of any heaped flammable vegetation, grass, tree and shrub cuttings from the property, AND
- Ensure the property is maintained for the entire fire season.

"Bushfires can happen at any time of the year, and it is everyone's responsibility to be prepared for bushfires, irrespective of the Fire Ban District they live in, work at, or are likely to visit this summer," Minister Szakacs said.

"I encourage all residents, workers and visitors to any of South Australia's 15 Fire Ban Districts to help reduce their risk by developing a Bushfire Survival Plan," he said.

A fire permit is required for burning activities during the Fire Danger Season or on days where a Total Fire Ban is declared.

Permits may be issued under the Fire and Emergency Services Act 2005 by an authorised officer of a local council.

Dates for the remaining seven fire ban districts will be announced in the coming weeks.

For more information on restrictions during the Fire Danger Season, how to prepare your home and property for the bushfire season, and how to develop a Bushfire Survival Plan, visit the CFS website at cfs.sa.gov.au.

CFS FACT SHEET

Preparing your home for bushfires

- Keep gutters clean and free of debris.
- Mow, rake and weed to remove fine fuels within 20 metres of your home.
- Prune shrubs so that their tops are well away from the lower branches of trees.
- Prune lower branches of shrubs and trees to separate the foliage from the ground fuels underneath.
- Reduce loose bark, dead twigs, leaves or branches from your yard.
- Move firewood and flammable items (such as paper recycling, boxes and crates) further away from your home.

Other steps to prepare:

- Have a Bushfire Survival Plan, no matter where you live, and practise it throughout the year.
- Prepare an Emergency Kit.
- Stay informed during the Fire Danger Season by monitoring multiple sources of information (TV, radio, CFS Website, social media, Bushfire Information Hotline).
- Learn about bushfire behaviour and how to survive by visiting the CFS website (www.cfs.sa.gov.au).

If you and your home are not fully prepared for a bushfire, or if you have any doubts about your ability to defend your home, you should plan to leave early.

Snake bite information from SA Ambulance Service

Each year emergency ambulance crews attend several patients as a result of snake bites – with the weather warming up and a few snake sightings already it's a timely reminder to us all on what to do if bitten. There are several steps in treating a patient who has been bitten and they are all designed to get the patient to definite care as soon as possible.

- Step 1 – keep the patient as still as possible, do not allow the person to walk and try and keep them calm
- Step 2 – place a conforming bandage on the limb affected – needs to be firm but not too tight that it cuts off their circulation – start at the bite site and then work down the limb and then back up to the top of the limb – leave fingers/toes exposed so the patient's circulation can be checked on that limb “DO NOT WASH/CLEAN THE BITE SITE”
- Step 3 – call 000 so an Ambulance can attend – please don't be tempted to pop them in a car and drive them yourself – you may think that's quicker but the Ambulance crew can provide expert clinical care for the patient and if the patient does deteriorate they can also provide lifesaving treatment on the way to the hospital

Snake venom travels through the lymphatic system and not the blood circulation – unlike your blood that gets pumped around your body the fluid in the lymphatic system only moves when you move.

Therefore Step 1 and 2 in the treatment of these patients is important – this will limit the movement of the venom around your body. 80% of all snake bites are “Dry Bites” – this means the snake will bite but not inject venom – the first bite is generally a warning and a protective reaction from the snake.

Remember snakes are generally more scared of us than we are of them and they will quickly move away – they generally only bite when cornered or in a threatening situation.

Please do not go trying to catch a snake after someone has been bitten – all hospitals carry a snake detection kit which can work out the type of snake that bit the patient.

Antivenin will only be given to those patients that are showing symptomatic signs of being envenomated – remember 80% of bites are “Dry Bites” and need no intervention at all.

If in any doubt feel free to call 000 and speak with the Ambulance Call takers who can provide first aid advice over the phone and advise the best course of action for the patient.

visitorroroo STAY & EXPLORE

October has seen some of the volunteers being training by Peter Amey in the art of scanning the archival photographs in the collection. Slow but steady progress has continued. Fortunately, the History Trust SA has agreed to extend the loan of the scanning equipment to the end of January 2024 to assist the project.

The Orroroo Historical Society has now been accepted as a member of the History Trust of SA's Museums and Collections Program. We welcome the opportunities this presents & will enable the society to apply for grants to acquire the equipment and programs required for further preservation of the collection and to provide more readily available access to the local and visiting communities.

Next meeting will be held on Wednesday 6th December at 3pm

PROBUS REPORT

We had interesting speakers for our October meeting. Our 10 minute speaker was Joy Ford who spoke about the Op Shop and how it is going forward. How it had helped the community with the money they have raised and the willing volunteers, a friendly place to visit.

Jo Jesser gave us an upgrade on what is available at the Library.

Guest Speakers for this month was June & Alan Chapman who spoke on their experiences running a property in the station country of NSW.

They had always had a desire to own a station and after spending time looking at various area decided to purchase their first station "Blue Hills" 100kms out of Cobar.

June did point out that the name of the Station had nothing to do with the long running radio play. That was the name it was known by when they purchased it. June a keen gardener, soon had one under way, this she accomplished while being actively involved in the day to day running of the station. The property ran sheep, but it soon became apparent that it was better suited to cattle. This became along with goats the major income. Alan recalled some of the rather harrowing experiences that they encountered with the mustering of the cattle and goats, and the trucking of them.

Several times June & Alan had a very long walk home after vehicles failed to start or became bogged. They purchased Blue Hills in 1997 and purchased a neighbouring property called Pulla Pulla a larger property in 1998. Both June and Alan said they loved the station life and if they were 30 years younger would do it all over again.

A REMINDER of change of date next meeting a week later on Tuesday 14th November at 10.00 am.

Wings Without Barriers

We follow with interest the journey of June and John Parnells grandson, Hamish McDonald (pictured above) as he continues his flight around Australia.

Hayden McDonald is on a mission to create understanding and acceptance of autism in the community through education. In addition he is challenging the medical process without compromising aeronautical safety that restricts people with autism.

Hayden left Esperance, WA, and has flown a small Jabaru aircraft through SA, NSW, Victoria, Queensland and NT talking at schools to students, and to other clubs about autism and flying. He dropped in to Whyalla, Pt. Augusta and Orroroo schools before taking a short rest time with John and June Parnell at Glenroy Estate, Carrieton.

During that section of the trip, Hayden stopped for lunch with Dick Smith, was a guest of Jabaru Aircraft manufactures at Bundeburgh who carried out some complimentary maintenance on the aircraft and visited Longreach Qantas museum. However he is now grounded at Kununurra WA by a weather event – smoke. The smoke is so thick through the top end at the moment all VFR flying is severely restricted, and Hayden is being advice by the weather forecasters that the smoke may not lift for up to a month.

Bad luck Hayden. Hang in there, it will shift some time.

JOHNBURGH SCHOOL REUNION

On Saturday 7th October 2023, a reunion for the Johnburgh School was held at Johnburgh with a static display of memorabilia in the hall and lunch held on the school grounds. Thanks to Neville and Delores Hombsch who now own the school. 66 people attended the event with some past students travelling from interstate. It was a fabulous day of reminiscing, story telling and friendship. The oldest student to attend was Beth Reynolds (Anesbury). Johnburgh School opened in 1891 and closed on 15th December 1967 due to lack of students. In 1968, the Belton to Orroroo bus run started.

Silverleaf Nightshade (Solanum elaeagnifolium)

Reducing its impact in the Northern and Yorke Region

Silverleaf Nightshade (solanum elaeagnifolium), sometimes called Tomato Weed, is a Weed of National Significance (WoNS) and is a declared plant under the Landscape South Australia Act 2019.

Silverleaf Nightshade is summer-growing, deep-rooted perennial herb that commonly grows to 40cms high, though some can reach 80cms. Stems are erect, branched and covered with fine hairs giving a silvery-white appearance. The lower portion of the stems are usually covered in spines. Leaves have scalloped margins and sharp spines.

Flowering begins in November and continues throughout summer. Flowers are purple to violet coloured with bright yellow anthers and 5 fused petals. Stems bear up to 60 berries that start out light and dark green striped and ripen to yellow.

Silverleaf nightshade is also found along road ways, through areas of native vegetation and along water courses.

Seeds are carried and spread by water, animals, in mud and on vehicles and machinery. Seed may also be spread in hay products. Regrowth and reproduction from root fragments is common.

Flowers appear mainly in summer and autumn. The flowers are very small and occur in clusters in the axils of the leaves. The flowers are surrounded by sharply-pointed, chaff-coloured bracts.

Fruit is a prickly chaff-coloured burr about 1 cm long.

Seeds germinate in the spring but can also germinate in response to summer rain.

The taproot and stems develop over spring and summer, with all above-ground growth dying off in late summer. New growth is produced from the tap root in the following spring.

Where is it found?

Today Silverleaf Nightshade has invaded cropping and grazing areas in the southern half of South Australia and is significant in Southern Flinders region.

What damage does it do on your property?

Silverleaf nightshade forms large infestations and can impact crop yields significantly with cereal and summer crops reduced by up to 50-75%. Summer growing and annual pastures are also affected, with restricted access to pasture resulting in the reduced carrying capacity of stock.

Silverleaf Nightshade is unpalatable to stock and displaces valuable pasture species, occasionally causing poisoning of stock.

The reduced production and high costs involved in control greatly reduce the value of infested land.

Control Methods

What can you do?

Controlling colonies is difficult due to extensive interconnecting root systems and the plants ability to re-grow from root fragments. Any plants found should be destroyed before setting seed to prevent further infestations. Effective, long term control requires vigilance and integration of a number of control methods.

Hygiene Practises

Prevention is the best control strategy. Continue to monitor your property for new outbreaks to prevent establishment.

Sheep can carry seed internally for up to a month so keep stock away from fruiting plants. Ensure purchases of fodder, stock, produce and soil are free of Silverleaf nightshade seeds.

If stock are brought from infested areas they should be kept for at least 14 days in a holding paddock to clean out. This paddock should be checked for weed seedlings later.

Cultivation will spread root fragments across a paddock and these can also be carried to other properties on machinery.

Mechanical

Manual removal is an option for smaller infestations, ensuring the whole root system is removed. Slashing before flowering in spring will delay Flowering; this treatment will suppress the weed temporarily.

Chemical

There are many herbicides registered for use on Silverleaf Nightshade. Spot or boom spraying should be carried out between September and January before seed drop.

Consult the PIRSA SA Weed Control for these control options and application rates. Contact us for a copy or find it online at https://pir.sa.gov.au/biosecurity/weeds/managing_weeds Pest plants – whose responsibility?

Pest plants don't recognise property boundaries. Pest plants don't recognise property boundaries. By working collaboratively, The Northern and Yorke Landscape Board and landholders have the best chance of controlling priority pest plants.

On private land

Landholders have a legal responsibility, under the Landscape South Australia Act 2019 to control declared plants on their land.

Landholders have a legal responsibility, under the Landscape South Australia Act 2019, to control declared plants on their land.

On roadside reserves

Roadsides are part of public road reserves, which are owned by the Crown. Under the Landscape South Australia Act 2019, regional Landscape boards are responsible for the control of declared pest plants on roadside reserves.

Landholders have the opportunity to control declared plants on road reserves adjoining their property. Where control work is undertaken by the local board, an account may be issued to landholders.

Before undertaking control work on road reserves, landholders should contact their local LandscapeSA office to determine if any approvals are required. Care should also be taken to avoid any off-target damage to native vegetation.

The Northern and Yorke Landscape Board can provide the following support to landholders

- A free weed identification service
- Advice about the most appropriate management method for pest plants on their property.

MEMORY LANE

Looking back at a former Orroroo School student's back ground and career ...

THEO 'JACK' KELDOULIS: 1929 - 2022

Theo Keldoulis, past President of the Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Ophthalmologists, was instrumental in shaping the way ophthalmology [the specialized field of medicine that focuses on the health of the eye] was taught and practiced in Australia. He died at Avalon NSW, on January 14th 2022.

Born at the dawn of the Great Depression, Theo was the third of four children of Dimitrios and Anthoula Keldoulis the milk bar and grocery store owners in Orroroo, a South Australian town in the Flinders Ranges foothills.

As a youngster Theo observed that the most respected people in the small dusty town were the school principal, the lawyer and doctor. It is believed that Dimitrios arrived in Australia in 1912, trying to avoid the second Balkan War. He traveled around the country from Perth to Darwin to Sydney doing a variety of menial jobs including cutting cane at Townsville. After eleven years on the road, he eventually joined his brother, Con, in Orroroo.

Anthoula came in either 1922 or 1923. She escaped the burning of Smyrna (now Izmir in Turkey) and spent a little time in Athens before heading to Australia. She was originally betrothed to Dimitrios's brother but apparently took a shine to Dimitrios upon arrival in Orroroo. Dimitrios Doulis Keldoulis was Naturalized at Orroroo on 1 May 1934.

Together Dimitrios and Anthoula set about bringing out all their relatives - part of the 1.1 million Greeks displaced from Asia Minor at the culmination of the Turkish War of Independence.

As refugees, Dimitrios and Anthoula's paper trails evaporated. Theo's birth certificate is rife with inaccuracies. Both parents are said to be from mainland Greece. It's possible they hid their origins as Gallipoli was still a fresh wound.

Theo recalled his father preparing some seafood for a customer and telling him, "If you don't want to smell like fish all day, get an education." A quick student, he grasped that excelling at school was the surest path away from the small-town prejudices then experienced by non-British immigrants. His mother, despite her language limitations, secured the help of the Orroroo Primary School principal to get her bright sons into the selective Adelaide High School and at age 13 he left home and went to the city. The family remained in Orroroo until the mid 1940s.

At high school during WWII, Theo lodged with his elder brother at the home of a deaf German stonemason in Adelaide. Bricks hurled by self-proclaimed patriots would regularly smash the windows of the house.

This only fortified Theo's resolve to hit the books and he graduated from high school a year early. He completed his preclinical training at Adelaide University before finishing his medical degree at Sydney University, graduating in 1952 with honours.

Following a stint at St George Hospital, Theo travelled as a ship's doctor to the UK to obtain his higher degrees, as Australia lacked a cohesive training and examination process for ophthalmological qualifications. After obtaining his Diploma of Ophthalmology in London he headed to Edinburgh to acquire surgical credentials, staying at the small, Lovat Hotel opposite the botanic gardens while cramming for exams.

Helen Sutherland, the hotel's proprietor, not only felt sorry for the lonely, intensely studious soon-to-be Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, she felt an attraction, too and they married in 1956. A son, James was born in 1958, before National Health duties called the family south, first to Sunderland, then eventually to London. In 1960, his mother's illness prompted Theo's return home. He had spent so long abroad he qualified as a British immigrant, eligible for the Assisted Passage Migration Scheme. Ironically, this Greek son of the gibber plains became "a ten-pound pom". He decided to forgo Macquarie Street and headed to where he felt he could do the most good, Sydney's Western suburbs, then filling up with immigrants working in the burgeoning manufacturing belt. It was also a place where speaking Greek was, for once, an advantage. The family grew with the addition of sons, Barry, in 1960, and Ian in 1963.

The 1960s was a fertile period for reassessing colonial legacies. Most pressing for Theo was that future Australian eye doctors should receive his level of education on their home soil. He became involved the Ophthalmological Society of Australia. When the OSA dissolved and the College for Ophthalmology was formed in 1969, Theo was an Inaugural Councillor. Among its first achievements was establishing supervised training of aspiring eye doctors and conducting exams to test their competence. Recognition of this initiative's success came in 1977 when the College was granted the Royal prefix, giving it equal stature with its British peers. Eventually it merged with its counterpart across the Tasman Sea becoming the Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Ophthalmologists - RANZCO.)

When asked why he chose eyes as his specialty, Theo once responded, "I really enjoy surgery but I don't like blood." In his early days as honorary medical officer at Liverpool and Fairfield District Hospitals, two types of operations particularly distressed him: repairing the horrific lacerations of car drivers and passengers flung through windscreens and removing skyrocket out of the eye sockets of children on cracker night. Both he felt were entirely preventable. Informally, through the College, he joined lobbying efforts to make seatbelts compulsory and to limit the sale of fireworks.

MEMORY LANE

From 1962 into the 2000s Theo continuously served in an official way on numerous College committees. An early champion of his friend Professor Fred Hollows' groundbreaking work with indigenous communities, Theo supported the formation of the National Trachoma survey and subsequent Aboriginal Eye Health program funded by the Federal Government and administered by the College.

Recognised for his prescience, in 1978 he chaired a committee to determine the long-term aims of the College. While acknowledging the excellent work done to ensure the highest possible standards of eye care to the Australian people, attention to research was found lacking. He steered the College to establish its own research arm and to "encourage manufacturers and suppliers of ophthalmic equipment and visual aids to provide funds." After appearing on TV to demonstrate how to safely view eclipses, Theo was conscious of the public image of his profession and ensured eye doctors consult the College when approached by the media. He felt the Australian people should recognise the College "as the repository of expertise on all ophthalmic matters—by other branches of the medical profession, by governments and by the community at large." He became President in 1985 and never shy of a fight, his presidential address, delivered after the 1984 NSW Doctor's Dispute brought upon by rising medical costs he sought a more muscular role for the College.

In 1991, he became Chairman of the Ophthalmic Research Institute of Australia. Theo saw the need to accumulate funds so that the College could provide meaningful grants to benefit eye research. This led to the founding of the Gift of Sight Society (which became the Australian and New Zealand Eye Foundation) to fund research. In Adelaide, in 2001, the College awarded Theo a Gold Medal, its highest award.

His practice overlapped the federal parliamentary seat of Werriwa, and he was Gough Whitlam's eye doctor. While he enjoyed the odd drink at the Lodge with Gough and Margaret, he was more often in Canberra fighting medico-legal battles on behalf of the College.

Having retired from practice at the age of 70, Theo still kept a hand in things ophthalmological remaining engaged with the College and by doing part-time medico-legal work from a Macquarie Street office, handy to his haunt, the Australia Club. Although the wood-paneled appeal of the Club was lost on younger generations, membership represented a kind of culmination for Theo, he'd really made it. When asked about his life, Theo said he would do it all again, with one caution, "I would specialise in paediatric eye care. Helping children see means they can get an education and has the greatest impact."

Theo Keldoulis, who died in Avalon on Friday, January

14th, is survived by his second wife Helen (nee Smith, who was surprised when she found out that Jack's real name was Theo), whom he married in 1988, three sons and a daughter plus an extended family spanning three generations.
